Beshear, AARP: Take Steps to Prevent Your Tax Return from Being Stolen

Kentuckians urged to file electronically, early to avoid falling victim to tax-theft

FRANKFORT, KY. (Feb. 15, 2018) – With tax season in full swing, Attorney General Andy Beshear and AARP Kentucky issued a scam alert to help Kentucky families protect their tax returns from being stolen by scammers.

Beshear and AARP said tax identity fraud occurs when someone uses your Social Security number to file a tax return in your name, before you file in order to steal your refund.

Tax-related scams, including identity fraud are reported in Kentucky, with more than 120 reports made to the Office of the Attorney General last year, representing families in 43 counties.

"The best weapon in fighting tax-theft scammers is to file your return early, electronically and use official state and federal websites to monitor your refund," said Beshear. "By filing early in the tax season, you can reduce your risk of identity theft by submitting your return before scammers. Waiting only gives con artists more time to steal your refund."

"Fraud targeting taxpayers continues to run rampant nationwide. And 2017 was a runaway year for fraudsters, and with the amount of valid information they have on consumers, their attacks are just getting more sophisticated," said AARP Kentucky State President Charlotte Whittaker. "If you can spot a scam, you can stop a scam. Watch out for these two tax crimes making headlines: tax identity theft and the IRS imposter scam."

Beshear and his Office of Senior Protection and Mediation recommends these tips from AARP to help Kentucky families avoid falling victim to tax-related identity theft.

File early. Beginning Jan. 29, 2018, the IRS and the state started accepting electronic filing of tax returns. Consider e-file. To help file quickly, consumers may qualify for the state and IRS's Free File programs, which allows the use of free, name-brand tax filing software. For more information on the IRS Free File program, click here and for information on the state program, click here.

Monitor your refund. Review the status of your refund by visiting the IRS's Where's My Refund? website or take advantage of the IRS2Go smartphone app. Click here to visit the state refund site.

Both the state and federal government continue to take steps to deter scammers and protect tax filers.

Beshear said the IRS might contact victims of tax fraud via mailed letter, while others may discover the fraud when they attempt to file their return.

Victims need to act quickly and follow these recommended steps:

Contact the IRS. To contact the IRS directly call, 800.908.4490.

Contact the Kentucky Department of Revenue at 502.564.4581.

The Community Foundation Awards Grant For Farms to Food Banks Program.

BEREA, KENTUCKY, February 19th, 2018 – The Kentucky Association of Food Banks (KAFB) was recently awarded a $10,000 grant which was made possible by the S.L. Gimbel Foundation, a component fund at The Community Foundation, Strengthening Inland Southern California through Philanthropy, to support their Farms to Food Banks Program.

The intent of the Farms to Food Banks program is to distribute as much healthful fresh produce to less-fortunate Kentuckians as possible while at the same time benefiting farmers and reducing the amount of food that goes to waste. Farms to Food Banks funds are used to help Kentucky farmers recoup losses for produce that would otherwise not be sold due to cosmetic imperfections or overproduction.

Since the program was first implemented statewide in 2011, over 15 million pounds of fresh produce from more than 800 farmers in 85 counties has been distributed to people facing hunger in all 120 Kentucky counties. Twenty-eight different types of fruits and vegetables are accepted through the Farms to Food Banks program.

"This grant will provide crucial finances for us at the start of the growing season," reports Sarah Vaughn, Programs Coordinator for the KAFB. "100% of the funds from this grant will go directly to Kentucky farmers to help offset the costs associated with picking, packing, and transporting their produce to one of our member food banks".

For more information about the Farms to Food Banks program, visit kafb.org, call the association at 859-986-7422 or email produce@kafb.org
